Keeping it simple

Life is a wonderful gift which we have complicated and made difficult. But it need not be so. The three components of life- the soul, the body, and the mind can work in harmony and bring us the much-needed balance we need. There is no need to spend large amounts of money on various schemes that promise you a healthier life. Those very difficult diet plans that eventually fail, one can bring about positive changes to their lifestyle by simply making small changes. Good habits take about 21 days to develop, after that they become your lifestyle choice.

Start Small. Most people want to create big change as quickly as possible, which makes it difficult to follow through. The most important part of building a new habit is staying consistent. It doesn't matter how well you perform on any individual day. Continuous effort is what makes the real difference. It doesn't matter if you start small because there will be plenty of time to pick up the intensity later. You don't need to join a Cross Fit gym, write a book, or change your entire diet at the very beginning.

Keeping it simple is not a guide but a friendly reminder that you have the potential to heal yourself. This book is filled with little notes on various aspects of life to bring a smile on your face and positivity in your life.

PART

For your soul, spirit, and subconscious mind

The soul is the very essence of your body. It is the immortal energy present in all of us, without which we would not exist in this universe. We must take care of not just our body but also care for the wellbeing of our soul. Love, compassion, self-worth, honesty, and happiness is what we must feed our souls for it to thrive, and for our health.

We are constantly starved for time. How often do you feel that- you do not have enough time, you have wasted precious time, or that the time of happiness will not return? Often daily we have one or more of these thoughts. We are in a race with time- one must get settled or have a flourishing career, or have graduated in their early twenties, get married and have children... and so on and so forth. Why put this kind of pressure when Time is simply a concept and the real virtue of life is not what we are doing but about how we feel about what we are doing.

Create time.

> You can create as much as you want.
> You can decide when to start and when to end the time.
> You are the master of time.

> It was never there and will not be there.
> The present time is the only time.
> It was never there and will not be there.
> The present time is the only time.

BEING ALONE

The idea of being alone is mostly dreaded. Get together, party, events, conferences are organized so that we can sit together and learn from each other. Learn from someone more knowledgeable. Have the knowledge to be used in some future moment of need.

It is equally important to be alone and spare some moments of loneliness for the data to be organized. It is as good as intermittent fasting. The body heals and resets in those periods and so do you.

How about the idea of the intermittent period of being alone away from all the sources of information? Just let it settle down. Let there be no barrier reaching out to you.

> Be alone for a shorter or longer duration to enjoy the bliss of knowing from within.
> Be alone to connect to yourself.
> Just a reminder.

Recurring thoughts

Over and over the same thing going on in your head. Thought you cannot get rid of. It may become vocal and turn into a voice. It becomes noisy and distracts you from other things you intend to complete.

Let's compare it with a child who demands your attention. If you give attention he starts calming down and if you ignore him, he becomes your biggest bully. Screams pull your hair, drive you nuts.

Now you can do two things one is a drug the child and he will be off to sleep and you will be able to carry on the work at hand. But you have limited time because he is going to wake up.

Or

You spend time with him. Spend time with that little inner child you have. Listen to him and acknowledge him. Whatever it says, good, bad or ugly. That is all. He just wants to be heard. Simple.

COMPLETENESS

Getting involved in daily life takes one away from one's own world. A feeling of emptiness comes in. Different tools help in trying to feel better and upbeat. Scrolling Facebook, watching a movie, talking to friends on the phone, eating food, drinking wine, sleeping tight. Everything helps but in bits and pieces.

What is it that one is part of and what is it that one should become part of, to become complete? That oneness which once felt is now missed intensely. Knowingly or unknowingly that is the search everyone is involved in.

One is essentially a part of the world which cannot be touched but can only be felt. One which can be touched is not the real world. The real world is unseen; it does not speak in volumes. It is quiet.

It is nonjudgmental. It is there forever. One does not have to become a part of it as one is already a part of it. No effort is involved in being what you are. The effort is to become what you are not. The physical world is the unreal world. The massive amount of energy is being spent to make it the real world but it is not the real world and it cannot be the real world.

Getting back to the real world is the ONLY way you will feel complete, serene and at peace. That is the only place where you will be at home. You do not have to go out to look for it. You have to go in and be there. Go in and connect to that vast home universe and feel the COMPLETENESS you had been missing forever.

LYING

> Changing the sequence of events is lying.
> Deleting important information is lying.
> Adding extra is lying.
> Saying the half-truth is lying.
> Telling harmless lies is lying.
> Lying for fun is lying.
> Soul trembles and body shakes when you lie at first.
> If you lie over and over soul and body dies over and over.
> It is your choice!

Most Important

Anything becomes “most important” at any given time. One tends to get focused on the “most important” thing in his life. One is tuned in to the basics of living as the “most important” thing. Life itself is not important at all until someone comes along and tells you that it is “most important” to live as you live only once.

Once you have agreed that the “most important” is the real purpose of day to day living - life becomes a serious business. Living becomes a difficult exercise. Weekdays and Weekends, chasing one after the other. Of course, it seems worthwhile apparently but it is not in reality. However serious you are in this game the end goal is losing this game.

The “most important” thing is to understand that it is not the “most important” thing.

Only you have made it the “most important”.

Only you can make it less important.

Value yourself

> Gold is a precious metal because we have agreed that it is precious.
> If we agree coal is precious the value of coal will increase.
> More agreement more increase in the value.
> Less agreement decreases the value.
> It is YOU who puts value in gold or coal.
> You are valuable.
> Value yourself.

Live without effort

> Nature does not operate on effort.

> It is unnatural to operate on effort.
> In your natural state, you can be effortless.
> Seek to live with nature and learn from nature.
> Learn to live naturally. Effortlessly.

Letters to God

A few days ago I read somewhere, "Making a conscious connection with the supreme power". I became mindful about the statement and decided to do that. After trying various ways the best approach I could stick to is "Writing a letter to God".

I started with the process about a month ago. It is a simple, direct and effective.

It helped me make conscious contact with the power source. My power increased manifold, manifestations became natural.

> Write every day, in an understandable way so that God gets it. Hold back nothing.
> From physical discomfort to emotional upsets.
> Worries about the past, present, and future.
> Expectations from the future. Fear about accomplishing them.
> Share everything because someone who can help is listening.
> Now is the time to get connected. Consciously.

Friends

Friend: a person whom one knows and with whom one has a bond of mutual affection

> An acquaintance is not a friend.
> A person who is a friend to himself can be a friend to others.
> Being friends with your own self involves:

Trusting yourself, having confidence in yourself, being truthful to yourself, being passionate about what you do, and keeping the word given by you, being of good appearance, being healthy and wealthy.

If you find an "acquaintance" not being friends with himself, do not make friends with him.

MAKE FRIENDS WITH SOMEONE WHO IS A FRIEND TO HIMSELF.

JOURNEY WITHIN

> Traveler travels miles and miles to reach the destined goal.
> He gets through many milestones.
> The journey is not easy and was never easy.
> As long as he knows from where he started he continues to travel.
> Once he reaches the destination. He travels back from where he started.
> The journey inside is no different than the journey outside.
> One goes through many milestones.
> The journey is not easy and was never easy.
> Once he reaches the destination.
> His journey ends and the end is the beginning.

Praise the Lord!!!!

> An artist is the one who creates and creates to his heart's desire.
> His fulfillment comes from the appreciation he gets from his audience.
> This is the only weakness he has.
> He is the creator of all the creators.
> He needs appreciation too.
> So
> Praise the Lord!!!!

Origin

> There was nothing in the beginning and the creator created something.
> Something grew into something else and something else to something else.
> The creation became bigger and bigger and went far away from the source.

Any journey which takes the creator back to the source brings back the feeling of homecoming.

Welcome back, It is never late, feel at home, remember you have an origin.

Fixed ideas

Wilderness of life requires one to come up with workable solutions. Those solutions become ideas and are passed on from one to another. Those who join later in the race for them these ideas are solid and they stick to it no matter what. Anything which becomes fixed and not flowing is matter, solid or dead. Life is always flowing it flows from one to another and continues.

One should be ready to look at the fixed ideas one is bound by. It gives birth to most of the social evils. Racism springs from this, one race is better than others because it has more fixed ideas. Loosen up. Look at your fixed ideas and check out if it makes you more solid or less.

Flow well, Flow all the time. You are energy. Do not get fixated in life.

Gratitude

Outflow gratitude, it heals, fulfills and energizes. Many types of research are being done to prove this point. You do your own research and find out if it works. If it does then insist on others to follow this too. One man can ignite the chain of gratitude and be an inspiration to others.

Start chains of people habitually expressing gratitude in whole or in part to where it belongs.

There is a science behind it and it was known to our ancestors intuitively. Passing on the power to another source and remaining free from the evils of ego were the basics taught to one and all. Gratitude takes off the air and one remains grounded. It is pertinent that one remains grounded to expand. Deeper the roots higher one goes.

Observing gratitude is simple and easy. Always look for good, look for the good in bad and never hesitate to welcome the good. Once you receive the good then pass it on to further the cause of goodness. Look for those people who you missed on expressing the gratitude, make a list of them and start today.

FUTURE

Future is going to be the next moment which is not there yet. This moment is not going to change to the next moment. Next moment is a new moment. Life goes moment by moment. You have the power of creating the next moment. You can decide to do it differently. You can decide to do it the same way. Life takes to turn the way you want it to. There are external influences around but you let decide to let them influence you. You pick your friends, family members, teammates, players and that is how the game goes. Change the influences on you and you make different choices and hence a different new moment and the future changes. You create your moods, you create your destiny, and you create your life. Once the creation is done you are the effect of that creation. You tend to believe that someone else did it for you or you wish that someone up above in the sky is controlling your destiny and if He desires life can be different. For a moment force yourself to smile. See, does it work? Create a blessed day.

Becoming a minimalist.

Becoming a minimalist is new word that is catching up. The other day I met a young man who was traveling internationally expanding his business. During the conversation he pointed out that “I am a minimalist". The word sounded familiar but made me curious what it entails per him or for that matter for me. What he meant was that he carries less stuff with him while traveling and it implied a great deal for me. I am traveling too through this journey of life, so less not more is what it takes for an easy journey. Everyone has to draw his own boundaries in being a minimalist. It can be being free of unnecessary holdings in your life, ranging from the clutter in the closet to the clutter in the head. It is your choice as to how much weight can you carry around. You can be free of clutter from the closet just by disowning and making more room but clutter from the head takes a great deal of effort to get rid off. "Reduce your screen time" can be your first step in decluttering your head. Do that for one week and see the result.

Vacationing for soul.

Generally vacations bring cheer to everyone. Things will be different on those days when there is no rush for humdrum of life. One will get up when one desires and will eat for desires. Vacation is over and one feels down because body resists going back. It is not rejuvenated. It happens almost with everyone. Full rest was given to body and fed to its expectations then why this response now? It is not the body but it is you who should have been fed. What is it that you need? You need to sit down and meditate. The word meditation, is derived from two Latin words: meditari(to think, to dwell upon, to exercise the mind) and mederi (to heal). Its Sanskrit derivation 'medha' means wisdom. There are so many unresolved situations in the business of life and that is where you are entrapped. When you sit down fully awake, all those situation start coming in front of you. It will work out by itself without any interference or effort from you and will resolve. That is the best capability the mind has. You have to be with yourself for this. You have to with others on the same level where they are meditating too. Once resolution takes place energy is released. Energies resonate where people sit down and meditate. Come for retreat and experience that personally. Vacation with a cause. Give a meaning to your weekend and spend it for yourself.

FOR YOUR BODY

Our body is the vessel in which our soul resides. We must take care and treat it with love and respect. When our mental state is unhappy we tend to poison our bodies with junk food, alcohol, drugs, smoking which leads to stress and an unhealthy appearance. When we look unhealthy we feel ugly and that in turn makes us feel depressed or angry with ourselves. Today there is so much pollution, processed food, unhealthy substance abuse and stress from over working ourselves that it has become imperative to care for your bodies. A holistic approach towards life is the best solution for a happy mind and healthy body. Make small changes to your diet, make time to rest and reset and exercise.

Start small. Make one positive change every day and see how it affects you in the long run. Do not compare yourselves to anyone else, you are a unique individual. Learn to listen to your body and do what's best for you.

Body and You.

You own a body and not the reverse. Body is made up of physical world and all the laws of physical world are applied to it. You are not part of physical world. You cannot be experienced by five sensational nodes. You are energy and follow the law of energy. You create matter, your transform into matter but you are you and you are the cause. Everything pulsates with energy. The body runs because of you. More you get confused with body more you become solid. Just to realize the true nature of you for a brief instant, make your body sit down in a chair and observe it. More you observe it more you see it as independent unit which you are operating as you operate your car. This can be the first step of getting to know the mystery of physical universe and your role in it. More you are free, more you are moving and energy is always moving creating more effects and desired effects. Be yourself and let body be the place to reside and take it like that. Take good care of your abode. Together you will do wonders.

Goals for Body are different than your goals.

Body is timed. It starts at one point and end at some. As this is inevitable and has to happen in any case. It brings anxiety and feeling of loosing time at every moment. Body has goals and targets to meet. This year, this month, this week, today and every moment has to show some accomplishment to get a feeling that you exist. With the changing times it has become more pronounced and everything needs to happen faster than before. When people compete with each other that is shown as how soon how much is achieved. So that goals are established against time because body is timed and limited. You are not timed. You are immortal. You are limitless. You live in one body and then you move to another body. Your goals are timeless, you do not need to have goals as you are always there and you are always creating. You will always exist; you do not go by calendar. You are not body. You are the creator. You create the body and body creates the goals against time. Your identification with body makes you nervous as well. Identify yourself and go FREE. Sit down for sometime without a goal to achieve something out of this "sitting down". Just a solitude where you meet you and feel certain about your immortal existence. You do not have to work for it as that is how you are. You just have to sit down and do not need to do anything to realize this. This is the simplest form of meditation and helps in achieving body goals and your goals.

Hydrate yourself not with water.

Does that mean drink lots of water throughout the day, maybe not? Drinking lots of water puts extra load on kidneys and nothing more than that. If you really want to get hydrated, use these simple tips. When most people think of Aloe Vera, the first thing that comes to mind is the soothing gel that helps with sunburns. Well not anymore. Dating back nearly 5,000 years to early Egyptian times, it was cited as being a powerful herbal medicine. This is down to the huge range of nutrients found in Aloe Vera juice, which replenishes your body naturally. It contains approximately 200 active components including vitamins A, B1, B2, B6, B12, C, E, folic acid and Niacin. Some of the benefits of taking Aloe Vera internally (remember to buy the juice- don't drink the gel for sunburns) included aiding digestion and promoting both good immunity and skin health. It is very soothing for the internal organs and helps beat the bloat.

COCONUT WATER

Coconut water refuels and hydrates the body by maintaining the body's fluid levels and its potassium content, which in turn helps maintain water pressure within cells and blood. The electrolyte content in coconut water improves nervous system functioning and nerve transmission; this can help prevent cramps and spasms in the muscle. Coconut water is also composed of many naturally occurring bioactive enzymes which help in digestion and metabolism. Lauric acid found in coconut water makes it anti-fungal, anti-bacterial and anti-viral. This boosts the immune system in fighting infection.

Gluten

Wheat had been a staple food for many civilizations. It is a complete food in itself. Wheat was known as complete food, nourishing and strengthening food. Gluten or gliadin component of weight is heavy and elastic and is easier to digest in lesser quantity.

In order to consume more of this grain the modification of grain started which changed the composition of the grain unsafe for human consumption.

That brought many symptoms not understood easily and the wheat came out to be the cause.

One can avoid wheat completely or look for wheat varieties which are not modified or changed over the years.

One has to do some research to find such non modified grain. I have done my research and found some great grains on https://pleasanthillgrain.com/ .There are many varieties of wheat that you will find here. You can pick anyone to your taste or try the different ones. You will enjoy the nourishing grain again.

Do not forget to buy grain mill and make flour at home so that you do not miss on the wholesomeness of the golden grain.
